

How Do You Know When It's Safe to Get Off?

- 1) The Ride Operator will tell you when it's time to get off.
Color the Ride Operator's uniform blue. What do you think she's saying?
- 2) If the ride has lap bars, the bar will come up when it's time to get off.
Color the lap bar black, and write "UP" next to it.
- 3) You might see signs or hear an announcement telling you it's time to get off.
Color the EXIT sign red.

Note to Parents

Amusement rides aren't all alike. The differences can confuse children.
Before your child gets on a ride, make sure he or she knows how to get off safely.

- Some rides stop only once, at the end of the ride.
Riders can safely get off when the ride stops moving.
- Some rides make temporary stops before the unload point.
Riders can safely get off during the final stop, but it's not safe to get off during a temporary stop.
- Some rides slow down, but don't fully stop at the unload point.
Riders can safely get off while the ride is still moving.
